

EDWIN BOOTH'S LAST CALLTHE GREAT TRAGEDIAN PASSES AWAY EARLY THIS MORNING.*The End Came Peacefully—Mr. Booth's Long Illness—His Career As An Actor—Other Deaths Reported To-Day.

New York, June 7.—Edwin Booth, the actor, quietly passed away at his apartments in the Players' Club, at 115 o'clock this morning. At his bedside at the time were Mr. and Mrs. Grossman, his son-in-law and daughter; his physician, Dr. St. Clair Smith; Superintendent McDougall, William H. Shaw, an intimate friend, and Charles F. Barry, the city of the renowned actor, which had been expected at any time during the past two days, was very peaceful, being scarcely noticeable to the anxious watchers at his bedside.

Mr. Booth had been ill many months. His first serious attack came on April 3, 1893, when he was stricken with paralysis while playing in "Othello" in the Lyceum Theatre in Rochester. The last four years of Mr. Booth's life have been passed at the Players' Club in comparative retirement. During the summer months of 1901 and 1902 he spent considerable time with his daughter at Narragansett. It was in the latter year, while making his last visit, that he was stricken with paralysis. His friends, particularly his wife, for his health, just at that time had grave apprehensions that he would not have sufficient strength to make a return to New York, but with cooler weather came an improvement in his condition, and he returned to the Players' Club in October. From this time those who knew him most intimately remarked a steady decline in his health. For two months his condition has been such that his death was expected at any time. He rallied a little two weeks ago, but last Saturday had a relapse, since when he has been gradually sinking.

Mr. Booth's Career. Edwin Booth, the most eminent of the sons of John Booth, the actor, was born in the city of New York, on March 10, 1833. He was his father's companion in boyhood, serving him faithfully in the capacity of dresser, and the elder Booth constantly instilled in him lessons tending to develop his histrionic ability. His first appearance on the stage was made in the Boston Museum, as "Richard III." on September 10, 1853, and on May 22, 1855, he appeared at the Arch-street Theatre, Philadelphia, in the role of "Richard III." He was distinguished himself by playing "Richard III." at the Chatham Theatre, New York, in the place of his father. His first independent appearance, however, was made on May 4, 1857, as "Richard III." in the Water Garden Theatre. In 1858 he drifted to California and played at Astoria and the San Francisco Islands. In 1859 he returned to New York, and was not until his farewell engagement at the Winter Garden Theatre, in 1860, that he was again in the city. In 1861 Mr. Booth married and made a brief tour to England, where he appeared at Haymarket, and at the London Theatre. After the death of his wife, in 1862, he went into retirement, not appearing on the stage again until 1865, when he made a decided hit as "Hamlet" at the Winter Garden Theatre. In 1866 Mr. Booth opened the theatre at the corner of Twenty-third street and Sixth avenue, New York, and, struggling with this theatre for five years, Mr. Booth sank a large fortune in the enterprise and withdrew from the profession. In 1870 he returned to the Winter Garden Theatre, London, playing in opposite roles to Henry Irving, and after a successful season in Germany. After his return to this country he starred jointly with Lawrence Barrett, and afterwards with Madame Modjeska, abandoning the stage two years ago on account of failing health.

In a contribution just before his death, Mr. Lawrence Barrett gave this interesting sketch and estimate of Mr. Booth: "Edwin Booth was born on March 10, 1833, at his father's farm in Hartford county, Maryland. He was the second of a family of five children. He was sent forth while almost a child himself, yet as a guide, companion and friend to the most artistic genius that ever illumined the theatre in any age. As mentor, dresser, companion, the boy lived almost a servant's life in the hotels, dressing-rooms, and wings, in constant and affectionate attendance upon him to whom the early drama of America owes so much of its glory. The applause received by the father ran in the lad's ears as a sweet music, and he was ever long destined to be his own. Indeed, he seemed already to participate in the glory of his father, the close and anomalous relation. Thus, the theatre was Edwin Booth's school-room, the greatest living actor his teacher, and the actors his fellow-pupils, divided from him only by the disparity of years. Constantly

THE OHIO REPUBLICANS.THE CONVENTION THAT WILL RENOMINATE GOV. MCKINLEY.*General Grosvenor's Address—Senator Sherman's Letter on the Duties of the Hour—The Various Candidates To Be Selected.

COLUMBUS, O., June 7.—The star political convention of the Ohio Republican party, which is the first notable gathering of the Ohio Republican party since the defeat of 1892. Intense interest is displayed by the delegates regarding every move, though much of the time is spent in the selection of the various candidates for the various offices. The convention is being held by numerous little fights in the primary district conventions, upon the outcome of which depended whether the friends of fighting Joe Foraker should acquire greater or less control of the State central committee and other party machinery. The overwhelming defeat of 1892, however, was a broad national sense. It was more than a defeat, it was a rebuke to the Governor, McKimley, who not only by promptly made the standard-bearer for the coming Ohio State campaign, but that it would be done in a manner that would make the State battle from the Democratic, he would almost inevitably become the Republican national candidate in 1896. On the other hand, there were those who felt that a majority of the delegates right in the hall would prefer another leader even in the fight for the governorship, and that the party organization should be reorganized, and McKimley's defeat. Whether this might be done through a hostile State central committee, a blundering platform, or how, was a matter of debate.

For an Ohio Republican convention, however, the general aspect was one of unusual harmony. The delegates, who were gathered from all parts of the State, were in the main, and by their agreement, may have contributed to this appearance of peace. The delegates, however, do not doubt that if Foraker had nominally renounced the position, and if the delegates had not been so divided, the result would have been a different one. The delegates, however, do not doubt that if Foraker had nominally renounced the position, and if the delegates had not been so divided, the result would have been a different one.

Upon the party principles to be enunciated by the convention, there was no serious other topic, there was the conversation among the delegates, and the delegates, however, do not doubt that if Foraker had nominally renounced the position, and if the delegates had not been so divided, the result would have been a different one.

Considerable discussion was manifested during the day regarding a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor. Apparently effects were being made to stir up the issue between Governor McKimley and Lieutenant-Governor Harris. It was a matter of debate whether the delegates should support Harris or McKimley. The delegates, however, do not doubt that if Foraker had nominally renounced the position, and if the delegates had not been so divided, the result would have been a different one.

RASSMANN'S STATEMENT.

MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL SAY HE WAS CORRECTLY REPORTED.

That He Did Say the Mayor Wanted the Porch Ordinance Passed—The Mayor's Reason for His Veto—Electric Light Prospects.

The statement made by Mr. Rassmann in the Council last night, that he had said the Mayor wanted the porch ordinance passed over his veto, has caused considerable comment. Mayor Sullivan, on reading the published account, at once took Mr. Rassmann to task about it. Mr. Rassmann replied that he had not been correctly quoted; that he did not say the Mayor wanted it passed, but that he had been requested by Council members to pass it, and that he had refused to do so, and that he had said the Mayor wanted it passed over his veto. The following are interviews with Council members who were present at the meeting at which Mr. Rassmann's statement was made.

Councilman Joseph L. Cooper—Rassmann said that he did say the Mayor wanted the porch ordinance passed over his veto. He said that he had said the Mayor wanted it passed over his veto, and that he had said the Mayor wanted it passed over his veto. He said that he had said the Mayor wanted it passed over his veto, and that he had said the Mayor wanted it passed over his veto. The Board of Public Works. Besides considerable routine affairs considered by the Board of Public Works today, a resolution was adopted to award a contract for the construction of a sewer in the alley west of Meridian from Bay to Morris; R. D. Drake will construct a sewer at Market and Pine streets. The free use of Tomlinson Hall June 14 was granted to the school commissioners for the annual high-school commencement. A bridge will be built over Fogie's run.

About Electric Lights. Considerable inquiry is made as to the time when Indianapolis will be lighted by electric lights. The time when the contract should go into effect has been extended, and people living in parts of the city that are not yet lighted are growing impatient. Mayor Sullivan says that work on the electric light system is going along with all possible rapidity and it will be only a short time now till the lights are put into service.

Reaping Time Street. Street Commissioner McGinty put a large force of men at work on Pine street today, and in a short time proposes to have it in first-class condition. The street will be repaved, and a new street car track will be laid down.

Street Sprinkling Liens. Judge Harper gives an opinion similar to that of Judge Winters.

Judge Harper this morning rendered the following decision in the suit of Oliver C. Meyers against the United States National Bank to foreclose a street sprinkling lien: This case is but one in hundreds like it, which have been commenced and are now pending in the courts. The lien is a lien on the principal sum due in each case is small, while the claim for costs and attorneys' fees is comparatively large.

There is no averment of a demand or effort of any kind to collect the lien, and the court held that suit was commenced. The law provides that a contractor's lien on gutting, rent, and other work done on streets shall be superior to any other lien except for taxes, and that the same may be foreclosed by the contractor by filing a lien in the court. The court held that the lien was valid and that the contractor was entitled to foreclose it.

MURDER TRIAL ARGUMENTS. Deputy Prosecutor Cox Opens for the State and Mr. Hugg For Defense.

The argument in the trial of Parker and McAffee for the murder of Charles E. Evans will not be concluded until Friday morning, according to the program of counsel for both sides. Deputy Prosecutor Cox, for the State, began yesterday afternoon, and concluded this morning at 11 o'clock. After devoting some attention to the law upon reasonable doubt, citing authorities to show that it was not merely the possibility of error, he took up the different phases of the case and discussed them separately. He argued that the State was entitled to a verdict, and that the jury should find the defendants guilty.

THE ROBY SPORTING CLUB. A Letter From the Governor to the Sheriff of Lake County About It.

The following letter has been sent to Charles H. Pedelco, sheriff of Lake County, by Governor Matthews: From information recently received, I fear that certain undesirable elements from Chicago are threatening to invade your county with a questionable organization. I also understand that an athletic club has been organized at Roby, claiming to be for the purpose of promoting athletic sports, when in reality it is for the purpose of conducting prize fights, and is a threat to the peace and order of the State.

A theological controversy at Irvington and Butler University is receiving attention from ministers of the Christian denomination. A paper read this week by the Rev. ROBY MUST GO.

GOVERNOR MATTHEWS has expressed his determination to wipe the Roby race course from Indiana soil. Not only does this evil have to go, but with it, the Governor says, must go the Columbus Athletic Club, which is about to open its doors to prize-fighting. The people of the State are well acquainted with the character of the Roby race track. It has been in almost constant operation since it was organized many years ago. It has drawn a depraved element from Chicago and other points to Lake county, where it has carried on its nefarious practices without interruption. The officials of that county knew of the intentions of the organization before it began its career of law-breaking. They knew that the element which patronizes Roby is so depraved that it would not be tolerated in Chicago. But no active measures have been taken in the county to suppress the evil doers. The violations of the law have been encouraged by the silence of the officials. An attempt was made in the last session of the General Assembly to force the racing association out of the State, but the committee sent to investigate it made a favorable report, and the Roby race have been going on with their robbery without being molested. Governor Matthews has lately insisted upon the sheriff of Lake county enforcing the laws. He has instructed the sheriff to close the race track if he has to go to the extreme limit of his power. If he is not able to suppress the evil, the Governor says that he himself will take the matter in hand, and will drive Roby out of Indiana at any cost. Since the race course has been established, the Columbus Athletic Association has been encouraged to organize. The athletic association and the Roby race track will be on the same plane, as the patronage of both will come from the same sources.

As to the State, the reputation which it will acquire from the arena and the race track will cause a loss that can not be estimated from a money point of view. It is said that some of the people of Lake county do not object to the opening of the club. This is additional evidence of the influence which the Roby race-track is having in the community. The sheriff of the county can call upon every man within its borders to help suppress these evils. He should have the encouragement of the entire State in carrying out these important duties of his office.

We can not too highly praise Governor Matthews' stand in this particular. His words, as quoted in THE NEWS yesterday, are manly and right; such words as ought to come from a Governor; words that will be echoed by every good citizen in the State, and make them all proud that their Governor is the man who has uttered them. He can break up the nest of infamy in Lake county by the enforcement of law, and he will do it.

It is to be hoped also that should the State be further disgraced by another lynching, official action as prompt, vigorous and commendable as that which is being directed against the Lake county evils will follow the deed.

RULING ON THE DEPENDENT PENSION ACT.

SECRETARY SMITH, Commissioner Lochren and Attorney-General Egan have concurred in the opinion that to be entitled to a rating under the law of 1890, an applicant for a pension must be helpless and totally disabled. In revoking the order of the late commissioner, the Secretary directs Commissioner Lochren to have an examination of the rolls made, to determine what pensions have heretofore been allowed under the Raun interpretation. This would indicate a purpose on the part of Secretary Smith to stop pensions so granted.

Nothing better illustrates the different points of view on the pension question than the expressions of two leading newspapers—the New York Times and the St. Louis Globe-Democrat—on this ruling. It is apparent that the law is open to two constructions. Congressmen who passed upon it in the House committee have conceded its ambiguity. The Democratic Times applauds the action of the Secretary; the Republican Globe-Democrat defends the view of Commissioner Raun and denounces the ruling. The Times holds that beneficiaries under the act as it has heretofore been operated shall be stricken from the rolls:

Certainly it does not follow that because an applicant has obtained a pension by the unlawful act of the authorities he should be permitted to draw the money so long as he is alive, or that he should be permitted to draw for the remainder of his life. It is as much as he is entitled lawfully to receive, simply because that sum was granted to him by an officer who was deliberately disobeying the statute. It will be recalled that when the shameful rulings made by Tanner were discovered, President Harrison and Secretary Noble decided not only that the amount of the money unlawfully granted could and should be discontinued, but also that the government might reclaim the money unlawfully paid by withholding future payments to the pensioner until the account should be settled. Under the decisions made at that time by a Republican administration, Judge Lochren can now not only prevent the payment hereafter, to pensioners already on the roll, of an excess unlawfully allowed by his predecessor, but also reclaim a part or the whole of the sums heretofore improperly paid.

The St. Louis paper, voicing a sentiment directly opposed to this, says: The dependent pension bill was designed to reach all soldiers who are permanently disabled, and to help them according to the degree of their inability to earn a living by manual labor. That is what it says in plain words, and that is the only view that can logically be taken of it. Secretary Smith has a perfect right to promote the cause of economy in all authorized and suitable ways; but he has not the right to save money for the Government by taking or withholding it from those to whom it legally belongs.

It is certainly to be regretted that a statute so important should be so loosely worded as to leave latitude for such different constructions. Congressman Warner, of New York, writing of pension reform in the June Forum, calls attention to the Raun construction of this law of 1890. He says that the Pension Office had practically rejected the "degree of disability" clause of the act now given emphasis by Secretary Smith.

DR. EISENBEISS AND THE MEDICAL SOCIETY.

We call Dr. Eisenbeiss' attention to a communication elsewhere in this paper from a member of the Marion County Medical Society. We also call the attention of the county commissioners to it, and the attention of all good citizens. This member of the Marion County Medical Society, who speaks as one having authority, says that Dr. Eisenbeiss has not stated a fact when he declares that $200 is the minimum charge fixed by that society for such service as he is now rendering Marion county. It is not strange that Dr. Eisenbeiss should state the fact since, according to the communication aforesaid, Dr. Eisenbeiss is not a member of that society. If this be the case, he can not, of course, be expected to accurately know the details of that society's proceedings.

Its proceedings in regard to such services as Dr. Eisenbeiss is now claiming $200 for and has asked $500, are that the price shall vary from $5 to $500. So Dr. Eisenbeiss is "off" in his statement of $200 being the minimum price just $195.

Now, since the Marion County Medical Society's charges are at the least $5 and at the most $500, and since a chemist of wide reputation and indubitable skill has offered to do the work for $25, we should like to know where Dr. Eisenbeiss gets his warrant for asking $500 and declining to take less than $200? Since a medical society, on the one hand, and chemists on the other differ from him, what in the name of all that is reputable is the basis of the value of his services?

THE EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS.

THE purpose of the President's statement in regard to the extra session of Congress which he will call in September is evidently to promote a better feeling and to encourage confidence. It is certainly a wise step which prompted the open expression of his intention to call an extra session, though it might be better, perhaps, if the day were not set so far distant.

While Mr. Cleveland's statement is palliative, there may be a color of truth in the report from Washington that he and his Cabinet are of the opinion that the silverites and the fiat money people of the South and West can be taught wisdom only through the stern tutelage of adversity. It is indicated by Mr. Cleveland's announcement that he looks to the repeal of the silver purchase law for relief from the present stringency, and that the repeal of the gold reserve is a matter which may be considered later. Three months must elapse before Congress assembles, unless the President changes his plan, but they are months in which there is comparatively little business transacted.

SCHOOL COMMISSIONER.

FOR a school commissioner in Indiana for a third term of two years, Jacob W. Loeper is proposed, a man who has shown by his conduct that he is not fit for the position. At present there is a civil suit against him in court brought by a brewing company over a dispute of several hundred dollars as to the settlement of account between it and him as its agent. In the course of his employment of the office of school commissioner his son has been employed in work for the school board, and expected further to have employment if the son's statements are correct. His daughter is employed in the public library. His conduct toward employees is marked by favoritism and tyranny. He has been made secretary of the school board, and has been put at the head of a most important committee. It is a reproach to the school board, a wrong to Indianapolis. The people should resent such management of their school affairs. We protest that it is in the nature of an imposition that Mr. Loeper should be returned to this office. Some one in that district who is fit should be nominated and elected in his place.

IS A STERLING OLD PLAY THERE IS A CHARACTER OF THE GOVERNOR WHO TURNS OUT AT VARIOUS POINTS OF THE PLAY TO BE DOING THE RIGHT THING, AND HE IS CONTINUOUSLY CONGRATULATED BY ANOTHER CHARACTER IN THE PLAY WITH: "Yer 'and, Governor, yer 'and." We extend the same to Governor Matthews. "Yer 'and, Governor, yer 'and." You have started out right in the Roby-race-track-prize-racing business. Keep it up, and set in the same fashion the next time there is a whitecap or lynching in Indiana, and your name shall be honored now and hereafter.

SECRETARY MORTON does not like the Populace and he is busy telling them about it. His Hindostanic Highness, the Nawab of Rampur, accompanied by a large suite, has also put his royal foot on these Democratic shores in the vicinity of San Francisco. He doesn't want any of Chicago's pink teas in his society. What he wants is roast pig and plenty of it. See?

The Grand Hotel is situated, who could not be present, says he said by way of explanation that if the ordinance was adopted it would be tested to the limit. He said he was not to the major, but to directly interested parties, the property owners. Like the ordinance has passed, by all means it should be tested, and if law is justice it would seem to a layman that the test would declare such a thing repugnant to right. The street of Indianapolis are being crowded by private property owners. The people's property needs to be rescued, not further made away with by private greed.

The conditions of the country are just as prosperous as they ever were, but the timidity of capitalists has reduced the supply of loanable funds.

The verdict of people who have been to the Columbian Exposition is that it is beyond all praise. The fair is a success. It is not probable that the world will again see such a stupendous exhibition in the next fifty years, especially if this exhibition does not result in financial success.

There is only one argument in favor of having the statue on the Soldiers' Monument face west—it could keep an eye on the Legislature.

WILL MR. O'NEAL please send assurances of his regard to the anti-trust convention?

This report comes from Decatur, Ill., that while public sentiment deplores the recent lynching, it does not demand the punishment of the lynchers. There is said to be little sympathy for Governor Altgeld's vigorous action in the matter, and it is suggested that money can be raised to defend any wrong the grand jury may indict. What a wretched story this is to go forth from a community, and yet it does not let us with us. It is not peculiar to Decatur, but it is to be feared in every community where a lynching occurs. Public sentiment, either negatively, or with open applause countenances or approves the usurpation of the law. The only way to change the deplorable attitude of the public is a rigid enforcement of the statute.

It is half a dozen of Decatur lynchings could be sent to the penitentiary, the moral effect upon the country would be tremendous, but this, it seems, is not likely to be accomplished. The difficulty is in making a beginning.

CONGRESS in extra session is sorely needed, and it doesn't want to spend the first few weeks of its time in adjourning.

MAYOR HARRISON, of Chicago, kissed Princess Eulalia's hand. This was done after an exhaustive study of and protracted reflection on his book of etiquette. But the verdict of Commander Davis on this proceeding is anxiously awaited.

LYNCHING seems to be executing a John Morgan raid.

The indictment of ex-Governor Chase for his connection with the Paris-Dwiggins banks syndicate presents a case which is not only pleasant to contemplate, but is also a pleasant one. Mr. Chase is not guilty, as charged in the indictment of the Howard county grand jury, but the people of Indiana must congratulate themselves that a man so careless of the business to which he lends his name was not elected to the high office of Governor. He has lately aspired. The ex-Governor may have been used as a tool by Dwiggins, but as a man experienced in the ordinary affairs of life he should have known what manner of enterprise he was engaging in. Apart from the connection of Mr. Chase's name with this wicked banking, the people of Indiana and the Howard county authorities are praiseworthy. Whoever is guilty should be held to strict account, and the prosecutions should be pressed without fear or favor.

CHASE, Paris and Walden have been indicted, but Zimri Dwiggins is the man that's wanted.

The striking machinists who interfered with the building of the Great locomotive works of Chicago, and thus precipitated an assignment, ought to reflect, during their season of enforced idleness, about the fable of the goose that laid the golden eggs.

The daily list of smashed banks is longer than that of Southern (or Northern) lynchings.

The wisdom of the suggestions for improving Crown Hill, which recently appeared in THE NEWS, is receiving practical recognition by the managers of the cemetery. At a meeting held yesterday it was decided to sprinkle the drive-ways. The feasibility of making a lake was also discussed. We hope the directors will not allow slight difficulties to deter them from making this much-needed improvement on the beautiful cemetery.

As we have before said, Crown Hill does not compare favorably with cemeteries of the class to which it belongs. It can be made equal to the best. We are glad that the managers have resolved to undertake improvements. We urge that the feasibility of having car-ways, in which people can be taken to any part of the cemetery, be also considered, and, above all, that the lake project be carried out.

RICH VALLEYS JUST EXPLORED.

One of Lieutenant Ahern's Discoveries in the Western Part of Montana.

The first hints of the future greatness of a brand-new country, or, rather, of a primitive wilderness are always interesting. First Lieut. George F. Ahern, of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, the discoverer of the rich valleys, has been mapping the Rocky mountain, describes an unexplored tract which he says "will in time be one of the richest sections of Montana." It was in August, 1891, that he left Ft. Shaw, in southern central Montana, to find a pass over the main range of the Rockies to the head waters of Flathead river. He was alone, but not without great difficulty and some danger that he all but lost his life. Coming down on the western slope of the mountain he found the timber was dense and beautiful, though it had been sparse and poor on this side—a circumstance that forms the rule on all four ranges of the Rockies further north in British Columbia and Idaho.

On the north and middle forks of the Flathead river, there were already a settlement, called Demerville, in that region. From Demerville he went to the head of Swan River and down the Clearwater to the mouth of the Snake. The waterways he saw what he calculated to be 1,500 square miles of fine timber, and plenty of agricultural land of a high quality. This is the region for which he predicts a glorious future. There are indications of gold, silver and copper on the flanks of the mountains, and wherever prospects there for a railroad will find the grades easy and engineering difficulties to hinder. A small part of the timber will pay for opening up the country with a railroad. At present the timber is being cut and the game regions in North America. Large game is plentiful. Elk and mountain goats, mountain lions, and even moose are to be found there in great numbers. Deer, antelope, and the streams are alive with trout.

A Baby's Feet and Hands.

A baby's feet, like sea-shells pink. Might tempt a child to kiss them, think. An angel's lips to kiss, we think.

Like rose-hued sea flowers toward the heat, They stretch and spread and wink. Their ten soft buds that part and meet.

No flower buds that expand and shrink. Glean half so heavenly sweet, As those of infants, when they nod.

A baby's feet.

A baby's hands, like rosebuds furled. Whence yet no leaf expands. Open if you touch, though closed up curled.

A baby's hands.

Then fast as warriors grip their brands. When battle's bolt is hurled. They close, clinched hard like tightening bands.

No rosebuds yet by dawn impaled. Match, even in loveliest lands. The sweetest flowers in all the world—A baby's hands.

A baby's hands—Charles Swinburne.

Song. Full, broad and bright, is the silver light. And stars on flood and fell. But in an instant, when the night. For I come to say farewell.

How glad I am to see you go. The step that bore me back to thee. No coldly comes upon my heart. The meeting that is but to part.

I do not ask a tear, but while I live, I'll never forget you. Oh, give me but a parting smile. To light me on my lonely way.

To shine a brilliant beacon light. To my reverend glance, afar. Through midnight, which can have no morrow. O'er the deep, silent surge of sorrow.

THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

The sale of enough bonds in Europe to insure the stability of the currency until Congress meets would greatly relieve the existing situation. It would eliminate, for the present at least, the chief factor in the disastrous uncertainty that prevails.—[New York Press.]

It is the apparent policy of the treasury to exhaust all resources before considering a bond issue. In the course of the trade gold must be come back to us within two or three months. If the treasury can meet the demands upon it for that brief time the occasion for a bond issue will have passed away.—[New York World.]

The present financial situation, as a prominent New York banker is reported to have said, "is working its way along along natural lines," and it will soon be found that it has worked as "a cleansing agent" and has done little damage to business that is well managed. There is more money in the country now than there was before, and the prospects are that it will soon be in active circulation.—[Cleveland Leader.]

If an increase of Congress is to be called it should be called speedily. If, as is to be hoped, Congress and the administration are about to unite on a policy concerning the currency and the protection to home industry, the sooner public confidence in the stability of existing conditions is established the better for the country. For the condition of the country is of itself good enough; what is needed is confidence in the stability of the condition. The possibilities, not the conditions, are the thing working toward evil.—[Chicago Inter Ocean.]

With continued monetary stringency throughout the country, attended with constant failures to the list of banking and mercantile failures, and with the basis of our currency leaving us at the rate of a million dollars a day, the situation is certainly gloomy. There are indications, however, that this terrible situation of gold will not be continued. Money is much easier in London, and the temper in financial circles there seems more confident. The decline in wheat, the price of the cereal down to a level at which Europe will buy, and we may be able to henceforth meet the demands of foreign creditors with some of our surplus of the gold.

RAILROAD INTERESTS.

E. A. Peck's New Position—Chicago Traffic—Other Railroad News.

E. A. Peck has been appointed general superintendent of the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern railroad and leased lines, and will take charge next Saturday. He will have jurisdiction over about 1,500 miles of road.

Mr. Peck's headquarters will be in St. Louis, but for the present his family will remain in this city. Mr. Peck was with the Bee Line and later with the Big Four.

He resigned as general superintendent of the latter system the first of the year. H. L. S. Bean, who was his chief clerk here, will go with him as chief clerk, and J. E. Rose will have position on the road. Mr. Peck will be brought into close relations with Joseph Ramsey, Jr., who, as general manager of the Big Four, requested his resignation.

The Chicago Traffic.

The Lake Erie & Western is making great preparations for the cheap excursion to Chicago, and expects, unless the weather interferes, to carry a large number of people. Two of the largest boats on the lake will meet the train at Michigan City and carry the passengers to the World's Fair, landing them two blocks from the main entrance of the grounds.

The other lines will make no reductions of rates to the Fair at present, and it is doubtful if they will do so at all. The officials say that the passenger business will be a repetition of that of the Centennial. It is light now, but in a short time the rush will begin. The roads, they say, will not be able to handle the people at the eight-dollar rate, and consequently there is no need of cutting it down. Two passenger trains on the New Moon went into Chicago yesterday so crowded that the people were compelled to stand up in the aisles of the cars.

A Bureau of Information.

Through the efforts of E. O. McCormick, general ticket agent of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton, a bureau of information has been established by that line in the Ohio Building at the World's Fair. It is a railroad ticket office where the patrons of the road can purchase tickets over any road on which they may desire to travel. Besides this it is a general intelligence office. Offices of this kind will probably be established by other roads.

Going to Europe.

Oscar Murray, vice-president of the Big Four system, and W. F. Walker, freight traffic manager of the Chesapeake & Ohio, will leave in a short time for Europe. Their principal business will be to establish additional steamship facilities.

Indiana Humane Society Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Indiana Humane Society was held last night at the Denison House. The report of the treasurer showed that the society collected last month $118, which, with the amount left over from the month before, made a total of $174.12. The expenses for the month had been $107.88, leaving a balance of $66.24. It was decided to distribute copies of the annual report of the society to the representatives of the World's Congress of Charities and Corrections, to be held in Chicago this month. C. S. Denny was appointed to superintend the distribution.

Marion County's Strawberry Exhibit.

The Marion County Agricultural and Horticultural Society will hold its annual strawberry exhibit Saturday in the Agricultural rooms at the State House. A number of premiums are announced for the various varieties of berries and currants; gooseberries and cherries will also be shown. There will be reports by standing committees on entomology, garden products, orchards, farm crops and small fruits. The meeting will last one day. In the afternoon there will be short speeches by Messrs. Cress, Millhouse, Theodore Wilson, L. N. Catter and B. Taylor.

Complaints Against Mud-Holes.

Indiana avenue, North street, Massachusetts avenue and Oak street are complained of.

Rheumatism.

My wife was afflicted with muscular rheumatism for over two years, and I had spent all my earnings for doctors and medicines without any relief. She was unable, for long periods, to attend to her household duties, her suffering was so intense. I was advised to try Perry's Magic Rheumatism Cure by a person who had been cured by it. Two bottles cured my wife's ailment and well; she is now in the enjoyment of excellent good health.
